

JONATHAN KIVELL

*Community Development Officer
United Bank*

Jonathan Kivell is a Community Development Officer with United Bank in Washington, DC. At United, he works on project finance for affordable housing, charter schools, and non-profit facilities. Before joining United, he worked as an underwriter in affordable housing finance for the DC office of a California-based commercial bank; in that position, he underwrote projects involving Low Income Housing Tax Credits and also led the analysis and approval for the bank's first New Markets Tax Credits investment.

Mr. Kivell received a master's degree in public policy from Georgetown University where he focused his studies on finance-related issues in low- and moderate-income areas in the United States. He is a member of the Advisory Board of Wall Street Without Walls, a team of financial technical assistance providers for community development finance, and is also the Founder and Board Chairman of the Educated Consumer Project, a non-profit organization that provides financial education programs to high school students in LMI communities in Washington, DC. Originally from Great Neck, NY, Mr. Kivell earned a B.S. cum laude from Cornell University and a master's degree in public policy (MPP) from Georgetown University.
