

FINANCIAL TIMES

Robin Harding
US Economics Editor

Robin Harding is US Economics Editor for the Financial Times, covering the US Federal Reserve and the US Treasury. Based in Washington, his beat includes US economics, financial markets and business.

Previously, Harding served as Tokyo correspondent for the FT, where he covered the Bank of Japan and the country's technology sector. Prior to this, he served as a London-based economics leader writer.

Before entering journalism, Harding worked in asset management and as a public policy researcher at the Social Market Foundation. He studied economics at Cambridge and also holds a master's degree in economics from Hitotsubashi University in Tokyo.

Find him on Twitter at @RobinBHarding.