Financial markets are improving, and the crisis mode that has characterized the past year is subsiding.

The housing sector, which has been at the center of the economic and financial crisis, also looks to be stabilizing—albeit, at a very depressed level. Housing starts and new home sales have leveled off, and existing home sales have edged up in recent months.

Income from the federal fiscal stimulus, as well as some improvement in confidence, has helped stabilize consumer spending. Since consumer spending accounts for two-thirds of all economic activity, this is a key precondition for economic recovery.
Nevertheless, Recession is Likely to Have Long-Lasting Impacts, Especially for Lower-Income Families

- 48 states face significant budget shortfalls, and are cutting public services such as health benefits for children and public education.

- Tightening lending standards will make it more difficult for families and small businesses to access credit: the Federal Reserve’s quarterly Senior Loan Officer Opinion Survey on Bank Lending Practices found that 65 percent reported tightened standards for the fourth quarter of 2008.

- CDFIs are increasingly facing liquidity constraints; their borrowers are in more need of ‘patient’ capital at the same time it is becoming harder to provide it.
