

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF SAN FRANCISCO

CALL FOR PAPERS

2nd Annual Conference on Macro-Finance Research

October 10, 2025

Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco

Submission deadline: May 31, 2025

The Center for Monetary Research at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco is sponsoring an annual conference on macro-finance research. The next conference will be held in San Francisco on Friday, October 10, 2025. The purpose of the conference is to discuss the latest macro-finance research, broadly defined as work on the links between financial markets, monetary policy, and the macroeconomy. Both empirical and theoretical submissions are encouraged. A keynote presentation will be given by Philipp Schnabl (NYU Stern). To see the program of last year's conference, click here.

Those interested in presenting their research at this conference should send a PDF of their paper to Macro.Finance.Conference@sf.frb.org by May 31, 2025. Authors of accepted papers will be notified by mid-June. Travel expenses for authors and discussants will be reimbursed. The conference program and papers will be posted online at <https://www.frbsf.org/news-and-media/events/>

At this conference the new SF Fed Award for Monetary Research will be conferred to an early-stage scholar that has made significant and policy-relevant research contributions to macro-finance and/or monetary economics. The goal of this annual award is to recognize and support outstanding early-career researchers that will shape the future of macro-finance and monetary research and its applications in central banking. Please email nominations by the submission deadline, including a short justification and a CV. Self-nominations are accepted.

Organizers

Michael Bauer, Thomas Mertens, and Pascal Paul